It is wise to provide against emergencies that are liable to arise in every family. A cold may be a dangerous thing, or not, depending upon the means at hand to combat it. An official of the Union Pacific Railroad received, on Saturday last, an order from the Vice President of the road to return to headquarters the annual pass that had been issued by the company for the use of his wife. He sent back the pass and the following letter with it:

Dear Sir: I return pass issued to Mrs., as requested, but at the same time would respectfully suggest that to restore the status quo ante of our relations a rise of salary equivalent to the traveling expenses of self and wife be allowed by your company. I am not in the railroad business for my health by any means, and when I accepted my present salary it was on the distinct understanding that it included fare transportation for self and family. I am aware that it is not you, but Congress, that has so rudely stepped in to destroy part of the stipulations of our contract, but that does not concern me. I don't propose to fool away time fighting the United States, but I can put a bit of a screw on to you. I can leave if the job don't suit me, and it don't suit at the present terms, or anything short of $1,000 a year additional. This is the first time within my experience as a railroad man that railroads have obeyed a new law without fighting it through every court in the land, and that they make so radical a change in their system at this day is proof to me that they are in collusion with the government to rob us poor employees. You might have put my wife down as an employee, but you didn't. You complied with the law with a good faith and thoroughness that, from a railroad man's standpoint, was positively as indecent as it was unprofessional. I suppose the next thing you will be doing will be to stop discrimination, and then I'd like to know what the business would come to. When I read your note and saw to what a depth of base obedience our once stalwart road had fallen, I shed bitter tears. Perhaps you intend to pay the government debt. If so, wire me at once, for not even a raise of salary would induce me to work on a road managed by such mean spirited men. Yours, indignantly,

ARBOR DAY.
A Lady Correspondent Makes Some Suggestions.
TO THE EDITOR OF THE APPEAL:—I notice in your paper of Sunday that Mr. Adolph Sutro has at your request donated 1,000 evergreen trees to the city of Carson that we may appropriately observe Arbor Day. I did not quite understand from your letter or your article how the contribution was to be managed. I would like to make a few suggestions as follows:
Let the citizens get together and make some suitable arrangements for the observance of the day. It seems to me that a committee ought to be appointed to manage the whole affair.
Every schoolchild here ought to plant a tree and the grown folks ought to have the rest.
Or perhaps it would be a good idea for the city to set apart a block for a park where quite a number of the trees might be planted, and the citizens by a small contribution could keep the park watered and cared for.
These thousand trees would make a splendid start for a park in Carson and each year we could add to them until we had a place which would prove a great attraction.
These are merely a few suggestions. Perhaps someone else can suggest something still more feasible.
Yours truly,
A LADY.

The Proposed Railroad.
Senator Foley, of Eureka, passed through Saturday on his return from San Francisco. He says work will be commenced on the Nevada, Idaho and Montana Railroad at this place within a year, and he expressed his willingness to wager a suit of clothes on the correctness of his opinion.—Silver State.

The Lottery bill being vetoed by the Governor don't bar the people from approving our selections of Spring goods. Blumenthal & Cohn.

All Grand Army Posts have been ordered to turn out on April 27, the anniversary of Grant's death.

Jasper McDonald the man who sued the Post for libel and got such a basting in return, is well known up in this section as a slippery mining operator. No one but an escape from a lunatic asylum, and a very recent one too, would ever think of investing in any mine that McDonald was connected with.

Some years ago he called on a lady now living in this city and said:

"Mrs., some years ago when I was a young man just starting out in life you extended me a kindness and assistance. I have never ceased to cherish the memory of your generous acts and until now I have never had an opportunity of cancelling the debt of gratitude. I wish to do it now that you may not think me an ingrate. I have just struck an enormous body of ore in my mine and the stock will be several hundred dollars when the richness of the find is known. None know it now but yourself, myself and my confidential foreman. If you order today you can get it for ten or twelve dollars a share."

The lady was so struck by McDonald's gratitude that she shed tears and then bought 100 shares of the stock at $12. She sold it in a few weeks at 40 cents and McDonald has not been round since.

"Don't Cut Rates."
We are sorry to see that the Evening Report offers to take legal advertising below the regular rates. As soon as a cut throat competition is established among newspapers there is no longer any profits in the business. John Dennis hit the nail on the head when once, in the Tuscarora Times Review he said:

"We have never cut rates. We prefer to starve like a gentleman, than to enter into rat competition with anybody."

If there is not enough business in Virginia City for three papers let one step down and out. If the rates are cut, two will go to the wall and the remaining one will be of very little account.

War News.
Although the APPEAL hasn't any special cable dispatch copyrighted from the New York Herald and World, it proposes to keep its readers posted on war news, regardless of expense. Here is a brief digest of the situation:

LONDON, March 27.—The war scare seems to be dead.
NEW YORK, March 28.—[Special]—The Star's London correspondent cables: The continual specials tonight are increasingly warlike.

The Governor's Trees.
Governor Stevenson has always been a firm advocate of Arbor Day. He has sent East through Mr. Kelley, of Reno, for 1000 trees of different varieties, and he proposes to distribute them where they will be planted on the 13th. He believes that everybody should fall in line and help make the day a big event in Nevada.

Reopened.
The Ormsby House dining room which a few weeks ago was closed to be renovated and repaired is now reopened by Mr. Kaiser and will be under the management of Mr. Thompson his old reliable steward. The restaurant and dining room will both continue to run to satisfy the demands of the largely increasing business.

No Reward.
In Nebraska, when Arbor Day was established, a prize of $1000 was appropriated to the person or firm setting out the most trees between sunrise and sunset. This established a sharp competition, and "the thing went." Nevada's Legislature was too close and short sighted to do that.
